

Coiaca Headquarters now in Europe

The IoT company moves its headquarters to Madrid for better addressing European market

Madrid (September 23, 2021) – Coiaca, worldwide IoT devices and solutions provider, is pleased to announce the official movement of its headquarters to Madrid, including sales and support offices.

Since it was founded, Coiaca has been providing devices to European market from its offices in Argentina. Now, most of the departments has been transferred to Madrid and, besides de hardware production that will take place in China, only a specialized research team will remain in Latin America, together with a sale and a support team to address American market.

“Based in Madrid we can provide better support, and also we can deliver devices to customers in just a few hours”, said M. Cecilia, Operations Director.

The new headquarters will support the company growth and will ease the introduction of the new products the company is about to launch.

About Coiaca

Founded in 2015 and based in Madrid from 2021, Coiaca is a technology company that designs and produces IoT (internet of things) hardware and provides solutions for automations.

Also produces interfaces that turns legacy devices into smart units, allowing to control them and get data, for better automations building.

###